OIL PAINTING BY G. T. MARGESON

The Rockport Shore

THERE will be a garden fete and pantomime on the lawn of the Twin Light Tea House, Wednesday. The pantomime is called "The Lady in the Moon," and was written and will be presented by Miss Vienna Knowlton, who was so successful with the pageants at the lawn fetes for the benefit of the Leander M. Haskins hospital A buffet supper will be served from 5 to 7, and there will be an abundance of food, so that people coming from the train will find this a desirable place to take supper. The affair is for the benefit of the Red Cross.

Mrs. Arthur H. Pingree had as her guest on Friday, F. Howard Callahan, who, when a student at Boston University, assisted Mr. Pingree with his church work in Norwood in 1914 and who, for the last 14 months has been in France doing Red Cross and Y. M. C A. work. Mr. Callahan has returned to the United States to enlist in the regular army, with the hope of soon returning to France.

Bridge and tea at the Country Club for the Red Cross was in order Wednesday.

Recent arrivals at the Ocean View : Miss L. M. Vanderwerken, Stanford, Conn. ; Miss Miriam Smith, Newark ; the Misses Anderson, Elizabeth, N. J. ; Mrs. R. F. Magnolia

JOHN HAYS HAMMOND, JR., the "wireless wizard" who has been engaged in work connected with aerial direction of torpedoes at Fortress Monroe is enjoying a short respite from his labors at his bungalow and radio labratory at Lookout hill.

Mr. and Mrs J. Arthur Hull who has been coming to Magnolia for a number of seasons, spent the week end recently at the Oceanside.

Mrs. Georgianna Lord Buckley and son, B. Lord Buckley, for many years season guests at the Oceanside, were guests at "Crowncliffe," the home of the Eugene Fosters, on Coolidge Point the early part of the week.

Miss Emily Gray had as her guest at luncheon at Hotel Aborn on Tuesday, her sister, Mrs P. T. Jackson of Beverly Farms. Mrs. Jackson is a sister-in-law of Professor Jackson of Harvard.

The annual fair to be held on the grounds of the Village Church will take place on Wednesday. The grounds which will be attractively decorated, will be ready for visitors at 10:30 and the fair will last well into the evening.

The Reverend Dr. Walter S. Eaton, pastor of the church and Mrs. Eaton will be about the grounds during the day.

The proceeds will go for the benefit of the Ladies' Aid Society.

The relief work at Magnolia which is carried on in the Oceanside Annex, attracts a large part of the summer colony each Monday and Thursday.

Among those who were present during the week are Miss Florence St. John Baldwin, Miss Susan Williams, Miss Abbie Covel, Miss Helen Covel, Miss Helen Louise Coates, Mrs. Charles S. Penhallow, Mrs S. S. Stevens, Mrs. A. M. Robinson, Miss Janet Bryan, Miss Violet Clendenin, Mrs. Francis L. Potts, Mrs. Newcomb Carlton, Mr. Mahlon R. Bryan, Mrs. T. G. Frick, Mrs. E. B. Rogers, Mrs. Charles F. The Cape Ann Shore

Devoted to the Interests of the Summer Residents of Cape Ann

ISSUED WEEKLY DURING THE SUMMER SEASON

PUBLISHED BY THE

NORTH SHORE PUBLISHING CO.

GLOUCESTER - - MASSACHUSETTS

Subscription price, on Cape Ann, for season, 50 cents. Postpaid, outside Cape Ann, $1.00 in advance.

For sale at all the summer hotels, at Shurtleff's news stand, Main Street.

TO ADVERTISERS

THE CAPE ANN SHORE, now in its twenty-second consecutive season, is the only summer resort publication on Cape Ann. It reaches every section of the cape, and is the only means of communication of the kind between the merchants and the summer residents. Therefore its value as an advertising medium is self-evident. It contains each week a full and complete account of the social happenings of the summer resort section. It occupies a place by itself in the advertising field, reaching the most profitable customers along the North Shore. Advertisers should remember these facts.

PRINTED AT THE OFFICE OF THE BARRY PRINTING COMPANY, SALEM, MASS.

NOTICE

Owing to the absence in the Naval Service of the conductor of this paper and inability to attend to the advertising end of the proposition; the urgent demand of the Government for the saving of white paper and the scarcity of labor, the number of pages of this publication is, perforce, reduced. After the Great Peace and normal conditions, the paper will be issued at its usual size.

Louis Wilson

It is with regret that we note the passing of Mr. Louis Wilson, proprietor of the Hotel Edward, Pigeon Cove. Any man who invests his money and enlists his energies in a summer hotel enterprise is a public benefactor in as much as he creates property, employs help and brings desirable people who may eventually become permanent summer residents.

But Mr. Wilson's vision was beyond the commercial side. He loved the magnificent expanse of sea and the constantly changing panorama, as the sails passed silently by, day and night, and he loved to share these delights with kindred souls. Hence he built The Edward that there might be an abiding place in consonance with the beauties of the place. Rockport loses a staunch friend.

Fund For Victims of Submarines

Mrs. John Hays Hammond, always ready to initiate and forward a philanthropic cause, has given a check of $250 to be placed on deposit with the Cape Ann National Bank as a necleus of the Fisherman's War Relief fund to assist needy fishermen, the victims of the ruthless submarine warfare of the Germans on the Atlantic seaboard. Additions to this fund will be duly acknowledged in the press and the fund will be distributed through a competent committee which is in a position to be fully advised of the needs of those entitled to its benefits. Those who desire to contribute to this worthy cause may make their ckecks or cash remittances to the Cape Ann National Bank for this especial fund.

There was a presentation and dedication of a new flag by the guests. Six of the children carried the flag across the lawn in procession to the flag staff, Helen and Gwendolyn Miller of Montclair, N. J., Shirley Bolton of Boston, Nancy Claflen Keyes of New York, Elizabeth Dunnells of Pittsburgh and Francis Hopkinson Perkins of Baltimore. Rev. James S. Williamson of Plymouth church, New Haven, read the prayers for the army and navy, and the assembly joined in singing the National Anthem, led by Dr. B. Merrill Hopkinson of Baltimore, who then requested the audience to repeat after him "The American Creed," by William Tyler Page, after which America was sung.

Dr. Williamson reminded his hearers of their patriotic right and duties as Americans, in supporting and upholding the honor of the flag. The pledge of allegiance was then given, and the meeting was concluded by the thanks and acceptance of the flag by Mr. Montgomery on behalf of the management.

The Masque of Mercy at Folly Cove

One good deed leads to another and this is true also of community theatres. The successful launching of the Playhouse-on-the-Moors, at East Gloucester has revealed the fact that another community theatre has been flourishing for five years at Lanesville on the other side of the Cape. Here near Folly Cove, the sculptor Charles Grafly has made his summer home for many seasons and has conceived some of his best known pieces, among them the "Pioneer Mother", exhibited to Gloucester before it was sent to its purchaser, the City of San Francisco.

It is in the grove on his grounds that the open air theatre has been created and his daughter, Miss Dorothy Grafly, is the author and director of the performances held there. These have been for the most part in the nature of masques—that is a story told through a series of dances by groups and soloists, so arranged as to develop a consistent plot. Each performance includes from thirty to forty dancers so that almost the entire number of young people in the community participate. There are some old hands among them, actors who worked under Miss Grafly's direction before the present theatre was designed, but there is always a feature arranged to include the little ones just reached a dancing age. For the theatre rests on the belief that all interpretive art is only the development of the instinct for play which is too often crushed out of us before it has found its spontaneous outlet in any form of self-expression.

Thus Miss Grafly does not try to teach her dancers any steps but watching their natural gestures and attitudes which they adopt in working out the story she tells them, builds up her dances upon the movements which the instinct of the dancers has suggested.

The theatre itself is another happy adaptation of nature to art. The auditorium seating about 200 is supported by the natural columns of trees and roofed by their foliage. Beyond a chain of small boulders connecting to fine tall oaks, is the stage covered with grass and sloping some fifty feet to a backing of living greenery above which the grove stretches on apparently to the horizon line.

Another charm is these performances is the illumination which Mr. Grafly always superintends himself. With the artists understanding of the values of light and shadow he manipulates his various torches upon the moving forms and shifting foliage and the dancers become figures in a series of beautiful and ever changing pictures.

Previous to the present season, the masques have been shown only to an invited audience but this year the theatre will be open to the public. The presentation will be the Masque of Mercy and an admission fee will be charged for the benefit of the Red Cross. The performance will be Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings August 20, 21 and 22.

PRES. and MRS. WOODROW WILSON

Guests of Col. and Mrs. E. M. House at Coolidge Point—President a Former Guest at East Gloucester

Cape Ann continues in the big league of Summer resorts. For the second time within a year, President WoodrowWilson, accompanied by Mrs. Wilson, is visiting the North Shore, arriving at Magnolia at 9.25 o'clock Thursday morning on a special train, and they will spend several days with Col. and Mrs. E. M. House at their summer home at Coolidge Point. The visit comes as no surprise at it was announced at Washington last night that the President was leaving to spend the week-end with his close personal adviser at the North Shore summer home.

This is the first opportunity the President has had to get away from his official duties at the White House. He has remained at the capital throughout the heated spell, attending to all the important matters connected with the war activities of the Government.

The Presidential party left Washington Wednesday evening and arrived at Boston at 8 o'clock. They left the North Station in a special train of three cars shortly afterward with the right of way over everything. The President's special reached Magnolia station soon after 9 o'clock where the party was met by Col. House and all proceeded in automobiles to the colonel's summer home.

Soon after reaching Col. House's summer home, the President and Mrs. Wilson and Col. and Mrs. House left for a short motor trip before luncheon. No program has been planned, it was announced at the House residence, but it was stated that it was expected that the President would be here several days.

While the President came here primarily for rest, the first he has had since his surprise visit here last September, there will undoubtedly be a discussion of several important subjects. One of the things that will probably be talked over is the submarine menace to the fishing fleet.

President Wilson is no stranger to Gloucester. Some ten years ago when a professor in Princeton he came with his family and his first wife's relatives, Prof. Stockton Axson and family to the Harbor View East Gloucester. While there the party took quite an active interest in summer affairs and published a little paper containing witty notes and skits on summer resort life.

Air Service to Benefit by North Shore Programs

Aerial warfare will be very much to the fore in the North Shore Summer colony with two big benefit performances on Tuesday evening, Aug. 20, at Hawthorne Inn Casino, and on Wednesday, Aug. 21, at Horticultural Hall, Manchester-by-the-Sea. The entertainments will consist of official moving pictures of aerial warfare. Augustus Post of flying fame will describe the thrilling adventures of our fleets of the air. Lieut. Van Valzeh, in command of the Naval Aviation School at Tech, has been invited to be present and bring a number of aviators as guests of honor.

The Gloucester performance will be under the auspices of the National Aeronautic Committee, Mrs. Charles A. Van Rensselaer chairman, and Mrs. Henry A. Wise Wood, vice chairman. The proceeds will be used to provide athletic equipment for the permanent aviation fields in this country.

The entertainment at Manchester is under the direction of the Aerial League of America, Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary, president. Mrs. Wise Wood is a director. Money raised at this affair will be spent for the many needs of American aviators abroad.

Mrs. Henry A. Wise Wood of New York and Annisquam has charge of both benefit performances, with Miss Portia Willis of New York city.

For Italian War Relief

Dr. and Mrs. Lancashire have offered their estate at Manchester for a Venetian fete, which will be given on the afternoon of next Saturday. The affair is in aid of the Italian war relief fund of America, and the North Shore branch committee, of which Mrs. George Lee of Beverly Farms is chairman, has charge of the arrangements. This committee is making every effort to have the fete a notable artistic triumph.

Many attractions are being planned for the program, a most interesting feature being a group of Japanese plays which will be given by Michio Itow and his troupe, with appropriate music by Yamada and other artists. Their performance will combine both pantomime and the dance.

Strolling musicians singing and playing about the place will be in charge of Mrs. Robert Treat Paine, 2d.

Miss Elizabeth W. Perkins of Beverly Farms is designing posters. The patroness committee is in charge of Mr. Q. A. Shaw; refreshments, Mrs. Godfrey L. Cabot, and waitresses, Mrs. Francis W. Sargent, Jr. A fortune-teller will be provided through the kindness of Miss Margaret L. Corlies, and Mrs. Edwin H. Mower will be in charge of electric light photographs. Tickets will be on sale by Mrs. Francis P. Sears in Hamilton, the "Al Piave" refreshment place in the Magnolia Colonnade, and at Mrs. Hobart E Warren's in Beverly Farms.

Ipswich

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Grant and children of Detroit, Mich., and Mrs. James C. White of Boston are in Ipswich.

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Crane Jr. and children are still at their estate, Castle Hill, and will leave soon for a short stay in New Hampshire.

Some Interesting Old Houses In Gloucester,' Mass.

This right would probably have been established in time, had there been no Universalists in Gloucester. This, however, is where the fight was made and the victory won and it is hardly too much to say that without the assistance of the Sargent family this could not have been done. This family has a large number of distinguished representatives still living all over the United States. Among the well known names of past generations of Sargents who traced their ancestry to the Gloucester family are Col. Paul Dudley Sargent, John Osborne Sargent, General Horace Binney Sargent, Lucius Manlius Sargent, author of a most interesting book entitled, Dealings with the Dead and other books too little known considering their worth: Henry Sargent, well known for his painting, The Landing of the Pilgrims, now in Pilgrim Hall, Plymouth; Gov. Winthrop Sargent, brother of Mrs. John Murray, first Governor of the Mississippi Territory and one of the charter members of the society of the Cincinnati and Epes Sargent, editor author of several successful plays and writer of the popular sea song, Life on the Ocean Wave. Fitz William Sargent, another brother of Mrs. Murray was one of Gloucester's great merchants, at one time owning eighty vessels sailing from this port: while among those living are Charles Sprague Sargent our great authority on trees and John Singer Sargent, our greatest artist. In so brief an account of this family no doubt many names worthy of mention have been omitted. It is a family which in character and ability thru several generations deserves to rank with the Quincy Adams, the Eliots and other great families of New England.

Judith Sargent, daughter of Winthrop, widow of John Stevens, who married John Murray was a beautiful and talented woman whose portrait by Copley is in the possession of Mr. Charles Sprague Sargent of Brookline. She was a writer of ability in days when writing was considered to be not exactly woman's work. She wrote books and plays, edited a magazine and completed the story of her husband's life, which he had begun but had not half finished it at the time of his death, a biography which Frank B Sanborn calls one of the most interesting he ever read.

This house in which Murray lived is therefore associated with this remarkable Sargent family, as with one of the most interesting episodes in our history, the establishment of the right of each individual to support the church of his choice and no other. Before the members of the Independent Christian Church won their victory, Catholics, Episcopalians, Methodists and Baptists were required to support the established church (order it was called), as well as their own churches. There were no Unitarian churches at this time. When, however, the Unitarian ideas came into prominence, the way for their acceptance and progress had been prepared. Hence, Unitarians and all in fact who worship in freedom today, owe a debt of gratitude to the little group of Gloucester people who first established that right.

But the house has other associations, for here was born in 1791, Rev. Samuel Gilman, author of the song, "Fair Harvard."

After Mr. Winthrop Sargent's death and a little before the Murrays moved to Boston, the house was bought by Frederick Gilman who came here from Exeter, New Hampshire. Of the Gilman ownership, General William A Pew of Salem writes:

"Frederick Gilman had a romance with Abigal Somes whose father kept a tavern about where Stacys Clothing Store now is. They were married and he did business about where the Cape Ann Savings Bank is now located. He made a fortune, which, however, was dissipated before his death. He was a major of the Gloucester Militia and was a great friend of General and Molly Stark. The Starks frequently came from Dunbarton and were entertained in the Middle Street house. After Gilman's death the family was in very straightened circumstances. The widow removed to Salem and carried on business in which she made a fortune. She had one boy and a girl. The girl married Joseph King, a lawyer of Salem and the boy was Rev. Samuel Gilman for many years pastor of the Unitarian Church, Charleston, S. C., and author of Fair Harvard."

There is an interesting account of Rev. Samuel Gilman by Henry Wilder Foote in the June 8, number of 1916 of the Harvard Graduates Magazine and a memorial to his services in Charleston was dedicated in that city, April 16, 1916. Besides the song so familiar to all Harvard men, Rev. Samuel Gilman was a prolific writer for the periodicals of his day and the author of several books as well as a pioneer of the Unitarian faith in the South.

Manchester-By-The-Sea

Villa Crest, the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Denegre, was the scene of a brilliant party Thursday afternoon, when Mrs. Denegre opened her coach house for a benefit performance in aid of the French Wounded Fund. A Persian play, "Ahmed, the Cobbler," was presented.

In Mrs. Greely S. Curtis' cottage at Sharkesmouth, Sunday afternoon, there was a reception to Pres. James P. Gregg of Hampton Institute, in which she is much interested. There was a large representation of the North Shore Summer colony.

Lieut. Robert H. Reece of the Royal Flying Corps, Canada, who has received a cross of the Flying Corps for distinguished service, is well known in Manchester. He is a son of Mrs. John B. Thomas, who has a Summer home here.

A public meeting was held in Horticultural Hall Wednesday evening last, in the interests of home service for the families of the men in the army and navy. This particular branch of Red Cross work is being promoted locally by Mrs. Russell Codman.

Col. William A. Gaston was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Hooper several days at their West Manchester estate last week.

Rev. Frederick R. Griffin of the First Unitarian church, Philadelphia, preached Sunday in the Unitarian Church.

Ipswich

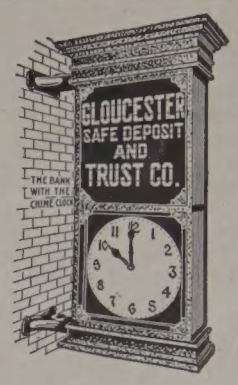

Mrs. James H. Proctor of Boston, now at her home on Fellows road, has received word that her son, Sergt. Thomas Proctor of the 101st Engineers, is in a hospital as the result of a gas attack.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ayer of Somerville are at the Myers cottage, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Langdon and son of Salem at the Narragansett cottage, Mr. and Mrs. William Goodhue and daughter of Hyde Park at the Sunset cottage, all at Little Neck.

Louis Wilson, proprietor of Hotel Edward, passed away Tuesday at his home 5816 Walnut street, Pittsburg, Pa. The news of his death will be learned with extreme regret on all sides, and especially this village.

Mr. Wilson was a graduate of Mt. Union College, Ohio, also the law class of Columbia College, New York, of 1877. An extensive traveller in Europe, he greatly enjoyed the inns of Europe after which he patterned the Hotel Edward at Pigeon Cove of which he was proprietor.

He was a staunch Republican, and a warm personal friend of the late President William McKinley. He is survived by a widow.

Funeral services were held at his late home, 5816 Walnut street, Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Today the remains will be taken to Ohio for interment in the family mausoleum.

The Misses Mabel G. and Grace Aiken, Elizabeth Flood and Virginia Dexter of Boston are spending a vacation period here.
